TARGETED GRADUATE STUDENT WORKSHOPS

Presenting Yourself to Potential Employers: The Résumé and Cover Letter
Tuesday, October 13th, 11:00am–12:00pm
Student Resource Building, Multipurpose Room
If you are looking to pursue career opportunities outside of academia, crafting an effective resume is very important. In this program topics will include the differences between the resume and curriculum vitae, creating key sections of the resume, and strategic targeting.

Laying the Groundwork for Your Job Search: Networking
Wednesday, October 28th, 11:00am–12:00pm
Student Resource Building, Multipurpose Room
Building professional relationships is integral to career success, especially for graduate students. And estimates are that over 80% of jobs are secured either directly or indirectly through personal networks. This interactive program will cover effective techniques for creating a strong base of professional connections and identify in-person and online networking opportunities.

Finding and Getting the Job You Want: The Interview
Monday, November 9th, 3:00–4:00pm
Student Resource Building, Multipurpose Room
Being chosen to interview for a position is an exciting time. You’ve succeeded in the application process, the employer likes what they see, and they now want to take things to the next level. The face to face meeting. This program will steer you along the process of preparing for the non-academic interview, what to expect in meeting your prospective employer, and how to show off your best qualifications.
